Miscellaneous Information

Those of us who have the luxury of taking breath, take for granted drawing air into our lungs to center our thoughts, to relax, to sing, to blow up a balloon, to run, and to kiss.

For people with lung diseases like (CF), every breath is a struggle, a triumph, and a painful reminder that it may be the last. So why not live to the fullest? To love to the fullest! But what if getting close to the one you love means jeopardizing everything, most importantly your life? Do you risk it all for that one touch, that one kiss? To breathe your very last breath?

So Take a breath. Take a deep breath. Because it could be your last.
